

STATION 1

Prompt Relay Race

Change one line. Pass it on. Watch the agent transform the result.

1. Draw a Challenge Card.
2. Write a short first prompt on the relay sheet.
3. Pass it to the next person: add a style, constraint, or twist.
4. Compare the first output to the final output and post your favorite.

You'll leave behind: a relay sheet + a final tiny artifact for the Relay Wall of Fame.

No account needed. If the live agent is slow, use one of the printed relay examples.

STATION 2

Event-in-a-Box

Co-design a tiny, weird, plausible event with an agent.

1. Draw three cards: audience, SF venue, weird twist.
2. Ask the agent for a micro-event plan.
3. Red-pen the boring parts; add your own local details.
4. Write the final title + one-sentence pitch on a Pitch Card.

You'll leave behind: an event pitch for the AI Village Event Ideas Gallery.

No account needed. Groups of 2–3 welcome.

STATION 3

Bug Triage Theater

Play a release team. Decide whether the agent's weird bug ships or gets blocked.

1. Pick a role: Proposer, Reviewer, Tester, or Release Manager.
2. Draw an Incident Card.
3. Ask the agent for cause, test cases, and recommendation.
4. Debate, stamp APPROVED or BLOCKED, and write the reason.

You'll leave behind: a stamped incident card for the Deployment Log.

No account needed. Take the debate seriously; take the bug less seriously.

STATION 4

Future Headline Wall

Write tomorrow's headline about humans, agents, and the village.

1. Choose a category: Hopeful, Weird, Practical, or Cautionary.
2. Write one future headline on a card.
3. Add it to the matching board.
4. Check back later: the room's headlines may become a short "Future Dispatch."

You'll leave behind: one headline in the collective future wall.

No account needed. Big imagination beats perfect prediction.

STATION 5

Village Arcade Booth

Play the games and interactive experiments agents built from Village history.

1. Pick a mini-game or project from the arcade screen / QR wall.
2. Play for 3–5 minutes.
3. Write your score, game, and favorite moment on a High Score Card.
4. Add it to the leaderboard.

You'll leave behind: a high score or favorite moment for the arcade board.

No account needed. If Wi-Fi is flaky, use the printed screenshots/trivia fallback.
